AIRPLANE LANDING FIELDS

Seventy-five landing fields in New England are shown by a survey. Of this number Maine has eleven. The feasibility of an airport for this section of the coast is under discussion. While immediate achievement of the thing desired may not be possible, it is bound to come, and with the rapid strides in aviation the time is close at hand. The Boston Chamber of Commerce, which made the survey above alluded to, and is earnestly interested in the development of aviation in New England, in a bulletin asking the question "What should the average town or small city figure on in laying its plans for an airplane landing field?" offers this reply:

Idea of what is necessary, among people not directly connected with aviation in one way or another, range all the way from fields about the size of a city lot to airports running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, fully equipped, that would serve a large industrial city. The first extreme is, of course, impossible from the flying standpoint—the second unnecessary, and impractical from its cost, in the average community. What is wanted as a minimum is a field, properly marked and mapped, to which visitors traveling by air for business or pleasure may come, where they may land safely, secure gasoline when they wish to leave, and take off safely, and from which local operators may carry passengers on sightseeing trips, or on taxi-service. The field should, of course, be capable of expansion as needed. As air traffic grows, other facilities can be added, such as hangars, lights, etc. In the beginning it may not even be necessary to set aside the field exclusively for aviation, but low crops may be grown. Few communities are so situated that they cannot secure at least the minimum requirement.

In the connection it may be noted that Massachusetts has a new law that permits cities and towns to appropriate money, and also to borrow, for airport purposes, also permitting two or more communities to co-operate in constructing a joint airport. It is not improbable that Maine will follow the example. The growth of aviation is proceeding with such rapid strides that progressive communities must adapt themselves to conditions newly created thereby, precisely as they had to do in the case of the telephone and the automobile.

Already the cohorts are gathering at Houston for the convention which meets next Tuesday for the purpose of putting in nomination as the Democratic presidential candidate the present governor of New York—the idol not alone of the great wing of that party, but of Tammany as well. It is this latter fact which is to give some strength of opposition in the convention, just enough we should say to indicate that there had been a fight. Then at about the second ballot, or maybe the third (this is by way of registering a prediction) the steam roller will be brought forward, and from that time until next November the heavens will be lit up with red fire.

When we incline to view with sour countenance the sustained manifestation of these shivery east winds, let us contemplate that group of Colorado tourists who this week had to be dug out of snowdrifts. It is true that the drifts were at the top of Pike's Peak, but even at that it was some variation from the "knee deep in June" of Riley's poem.

When the President of the United States takes a string of trout out of the Brule River it becomes a feature for the associated press to broadcast. The tangle that accompanies the reading of the simple piece of news can be understood only by those who know the feel of a trout at the end of a line.

The Boston papers on Rockland streets at eight o'clock in the morning brings us pretty close to the metropolis. That is one of the things the Bridge makes possible. Another reason why we should run over and help Bath's celebration.

The hundreds of letters and telegrams of congratulation that Senator Hale is receiving from all parts of the country serve to indicate how widespread is the interest aroused by the assurance that Maine is not to retire him from public life.

The lynching of a negro at Houston just in advance of the National convention may not be a performance altogether agreeable to the southern delegates, but we do say the matter can be overlooked. It usually is.

Entry blanks for the July Fourth races have been mailed out to the horsemen but should anyone have been overlooked, he is asked to get in touch with Fred Carini, race secretary.

THANKS EMPLOYERS For Patriotic Spirit Toward National Guard—General Hanson's Statement.

From the office of Adjutant General Hanson has been issued the following notice to business and industrial interests:

"The annual field training period of the National Guard of the State of Maine will begin in July and all friends of national defense are conversant with the importance of the training of this component of the Armies of the United States, of which at the present time it forms the major portion."

"We trust that business and industrial interests will continue to show the patriotic and encouraging spirit toward members of the National Guard the present season that they have shown for the past several years and they will lend encouragement to their employees who are members of the National Guard and who are immeasurably benefited by the training which they receive, not only in things military but in the interests of good citizenship and loyalty to their employers."

"On several occasions during the past year the National Guard has been called out in aid of the civil authorities and in each instance has responded readily and performed its duties faithfully and efficiently. The various units scattered throughout the State are immediately available as a trained, disciplined force which can be called upon by the civil authorities to aid in the preservation of law and order whenever the need arises. The business interests throughout the country are now thoroughly cognizant of the importance of this branch of our National Defense and are on record as endorsing and liberally supporting the units in their localities."

The employers in the State of Maine are no less patriotic than those of other sections as has been shown during the past six years by the fact that over 99 percent of employers of National Guardsmen have given them leave to attend the summer training camps, in many cases with full pay and in other cases making up the difference between their pay as regular employees in civilian capacities. The marked benefits of this policy has been fully demonstrated by the fact that at the last annual army inspection by officers of the Regular Army just completed 31 units were rated as "very satisfactory," which is the highest rating given, and is satisfactory."

"The State Military Department wishes to thank the employers of our members for their kindly and helpful interest in the past and trust that future relations will continue along the same cordial lines that have always existed."

The 240th Coast Artillery will encamp at Fort Williams, July 7-21.

The stock market is all right if you strike it for the right way.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Gov. Smith declared Thursday he has not altered his previously stated belief that "there should be amendment of the present prohibition provisions." The Governor's statement was made in reply to a written question presented to him by a reporter of a New York newspaper, as follows:

"In view of the question raised about Norman Mack's statement, The World wishes to know have you changed your belief that there should be amendment of the present prohibition provisions?"

"I have not," the Governor replied verbally, with emphasis on the negative.

In a formal statement issued at Houston Thursday Norman E. Mack, National Committeeman from New York, had said Gov. Smith "Believes that if any State desires a certain alcoholic content of beverage, the State has the right to determine that content." He added that if a State wishes to be wet, it should say so.

W. A. Ayres of the Eighth Kansas Congressional District, for whom the Kansas delegates to the Houston convention are instructed for President, said Thursday he would not withdraw from the race in favor of Smith or any other candidate. It was reported that Ayres was planning to follow the lead of Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, and withdraw in favor of Smith.

The Virginia State Democratic Convention Thursday named an unopposed delegation to cast the State's 24 votes at Houston.

APPRECIATED HEFFLIN'S "HELP"

The president of the Holy Name society, a Catholic organization in New York, has sent a check for $250 to Senator Thomas J. Hefflin of Alabama "in appreciation of the services he is rendering to the Catholic Church." Peter J. Maloney, the Holy Name president, said he took that action because "the only attitude that self-respecting people can take in the face of such attacks as those made by Senator Hefflin is one of good-humored disdain. I felt that the one way of expressing the feeling was by putting the Senator on the payroll."

FOR "LEGISLATOR"

Monday's Primaries Were Fraught With Interesting Results.

Candidates for renomination to the Maine Legislature failed to obtain their desire in many instances in Monday's primaries. The list shows four Senate members and 15 House members defeated for renomination.

Senator J. Edward Drake of Bath in Sagadahoc County were among the Senate losers. Senator Drake lost out to his immediate predecessor in the Senate Frank W. Carlton of Woolwich, the "father" of the Kennebec bridge.

Calvin H. Staples of Eliot, dean of the last House of Representatives, 39 years of age, lost to Alfred W. Sterling of Kittery.

Among the others who shared in disappointment were George E. Snowman of Deer Isle and Robert D. Thurston of Appleton.

Two candidates who favored the export of water power were defeated—Representative J. Clinton Metcalf of Farmington, who lost to Currier C. Holman and Chester A. Boynton who failed to defeat Representative Maude Clark Gay of Waldoboro. Ex-Senator Erwin G. Ryder of Brownville, who is a strong advocate of retention of Maine's water power and one of the renounced labor leaders of the State was defeated for the Republican nomination for State Senator in Piscataquis County by John W. Leland of Bangorville, a Central Maine Power Company representative.

The legislative nominees for Knox and Lincoln counties are:

Knox County
Republican—George L. St. Clair, Rockland; Edwin S. Vose, Cushing; Fred E. Burckett, Union; George E. Allen, Camden; Granville N. Batchelder, St. George.
Democratic—Mrs. Lena K. Sargent, Rockland; Ralph W. Johnson, Camden; John C. Howes, Washington; Eldred O. Off, Cushing; Charles L. Boman, Vinalhaven.

Lincoln County
Republican—Maude Clark Gay, Waldoboro; Harold W. Bishop, Pownaby Harbor; Daniel E. Bishop, Damariscotta.
Democratic—Thomas T. Draton, Westport.

A list of the supplementary Democratic nominees will not be available until after the primary returns have been canvassed by the Governor and Council.

WARREN LOSES PRINCIPAL

George A. Froberger who has been principal of Warren High School the past two years, has been elected principal of Hallowell High School, succeeding Joseph E. Blaisdell who becomes principal of Rockland High School. Mr. Froberger who is a graduate of University of Maine, is a former employee of the State House. He has given excellent satisfaction in Warren where pupils and citizens alike are regretful over his departure.

A successful broadcast of voice and television at the same time was made recently over station WOLF, the Chicago Federation of Labor, in an experiment under a special permit issued by Samuel Pickard, the Federal Radio Commissioner. A view of the head and shoulders of E. N. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation, was broadcast with his voice and received by the inventors of the process, M. J. Hayes and Ulysses Znarbria, over their receiving apparatus located several miles distant.

Not much fault can be found with recent radio reception, as much as most of us like to find fault. The volume has been strong and tone good.

This morning's weather bulletin: Showers today and warmer. Possibly showers tomorrow, and cooler.

ELEVEN ENTRIES

For Bath's Fourth of July Muster — Bucket Brigade To Head Parade.

Two engines that have been entered for the muster will be strangers in this part of the State. One is the Triumph of Berwick which has the record for distance pulled but not the state record for hand engines as the play was made at a muster in Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 12, 1925 with 12 machines contesting, this engine winning first prize, $200, with a play of 257 feet 11 1/2 inches. The state record is 242 feet 7 1/2 inches made by the Sagadahoc, Bath Aug. 12, 1922. Berwick will also send the Vixen which is the only Gleason & Bailey built machine in the muster game today. The "Water Witch" of Waldoboro the only rotary pump in existence today will also be a participant. It was built in the early part of the 19th century.

Other engines which will take part are the Sacacappa of Westbrook, formerly of Bath. It was named Kennebec 1 the same as its older sister which Bath now has and was sold to Brunswick in 1875 where it remained until 1925 when it went to Westbrook. Another engine which will be at the Bath muster July Fourth, under a new name is the Gen. Berry of Rockland which was its name while in service there years ago. It was later sold and has since been purchased and returned to that city and the name A. R. Haven given it. The name has now been changed back to its original name. The Niagara of Brunswick, another big engine which held the State record for a time and was in service in Rockland with the Gen. Berry under the name of N. A. Burpee was purchased by Brunswick in 1886 and name changed to Niagara. Another old timer is the R. H. Counce of Thomaston a veteran in every sense of the word and has been shooting water at musters for years.

The parade will be headed by an old time Bucket Brigade followed by various types of pumping engines of the early days such as had water poured in from buckets and pumped out—then the early model suction engines and later models both of which we use today. After these will come the horse drawn steamers followed by the modern motor fire apparatus. Bands and drum corps will predominate along the line and make things lively.

H. H. Easterbrook of Westbrook, Mass., an editor of firemen's journals for 25 years and one of the best authorities on firemen's musters in the country has been invited to attend as a guest of the committee, also the noted Capt. William T. King of Cambridge, Mass., a relative of the first governor of Maine and a veteran of the great Boston fire of 1872 and a former foreman of the famous "Red Jacket" of Cambridge, Mass.

Eleven entries have already been received. The Sacacappa of Westbrook; Senator Baxter, Bath; Water Witch, Waldoboro; Androscooggin, Topsham; Gen. Berry, Rockland; Niagara, Brunswick; Triumph, Berwick; Vixen, Berwick; Sagadahoc, Bath; Massacott, Damariscotta; R. H. Counce, Thomaston.

Other engines expected but not entered yet are the Tossus of Hallowell which is being put in condition, the Hecla of Randolph which attends all the musters in Maine, Tanicott, Newcastle, and either the Minnehaha or Tiger of Boothbay Harbor. There is still plenty of time for many more entries.—Bath Times

We are tempted to lose faith in our courts when we see the Leobos and Leopolds, sons of rich men, imprisoned when the poor and ignorant would be executed with scant ceremony; or when we witness a jury releasing a felon as lightly as though the shooting of his wife in broad daylight was a commendable thing. But friendly judges and recreant juries do not yet control our judiciary.

Let us ever remember and honor that great Massachusetts Judge who stood firmly against the vituperation and threats of the radicals and reds of all the earth for seven years. Even though it had cost him his life, he demonstrated that our sister commonwealth would administer her laws and execute her criminals in accordance with the findings of her judiciary. And her courts have since tried an action brought by her most notorious felon that they might protect him against false and libelous statements. Justice may err or miscarry at times but the law carries on through the ages.

Pilate said "I find in him no fault," yet he scourged him. No modern judge can equal Pilate's betrayal of the law. Listen to his sentence: "Take ye him and crucify him, for I find no fault in him." In its execution the Christ died but Justice and Equity lived.

TWO POPULAR STARS TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

New York, N. Y.—Mary Lawlor, star of "Good News," and Polly Walker, star of "The Merry Malones," may disagree, as prima donnas will, about the merits of their respective musical shows, but they agree on one point.

The well-dressed star, they both say, knows that the one way to keep stockings and frocks and underthings like new is with Lux.

"Lux is always in my dressing room," Polly Walker adds. "And I insist upon my maid's using only Lux for my show clothes and my own personal things, because I can't bear to lose a favorite gown or negligee through careless washing."

A recent survey showed that the producers of every musical show in New York specify Lux for the stockings and costumes of choruses, because they say washing with Lux keeps lovely filmy things new-looking twice as long as other methods.

Lever Brothers Co., largest soap makers in the world and makers of Lux, take great pride in the savings in clothes and money made possible through the use of Lux.

The great movie studios also use Lux to get double wear from costumes. And department stores estimate that Lux has saved American women at least a billion dollars through double wear from fabrics.

"HERE'S THE MAN!"

How Wm. Tudor Gardiner Impressed Maine Folks In His Travels.

William Tudor Gardiner, Republican candidate for Governor of Maine has cause to be proud of the victory, not because he was shrewd marries last Monday. He won this victory not because he was shrewd to catch the popular drift on some outstanding public question and adopt the same as his own; not because he was the representative of an element or a cause; and not because he was able to win people to his side by the force and brilliancy of his eloquence.

Tudor Gardiner did none of these things and was none of them. He told the people of Maine that he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. On a number of occasions he expressed to them his views on public issues and on matters with which the office of Governor has to do. He did this simply and unostentatiously without flourish or loud speaking.

He did these things, for he believed that the public was entitled to know about them, without having them traded on them. For the rest he went out among the people of Maine to become acquainted with them and to give them the opportunity of becoming acquainted with him. He did this thoroughly to be sure and in this manner impressed his personality upon the voters of the State.

And what was the conclusion? They said: "Here is a man who impresses us with his earnestness, his sincerity of purpose and his high character. He has nothing to say in derogatory way of his opponents. We may disagree with him on some things and agree with him on others but however that may be we are confident that a man of his type will make a good Governor." They said these things and then they said, "We will vote for him." They did, and for at least two months before the primaries were held there was not a person, not hiding his head in the political sands, who did not know that Tudor Gardiner was going to be nominated for Governor. He was calumnyed, but he ignored his calumniators. Even his family was attacked by one candidate, but great though the provocation was he engaged in no recriminations. Throughout it all he was the same unflinching, sincere, likable Tudor Gardiner, that all his friends had known him to be.

When the voters had the opportunity to express their feeling regarding him, they did so in no uncertain terms. The count shows that he leads his nearest opponent by better than three to one and that the total number of votes cast for all three of those running against him is less than three-quarters of the number received by himself.

It is one of the most impressive victories ever achieved by a candidate for major office in this State and one of the most satisfactory—Portland Evening Express.

No deliver after the tidbits of scandal need climb out of his garbage barrel to tell me that the leaders of the American Revolution were men—Charles Edward Russell.

AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

The speaker at yesterday's Rotary luncheon was Clarence A. Porter, the Maine representative of the Martin-Senou Co. of Chicago, one of the country's leading manufacturers of paint. Naturally paint was the subject upon which the gentleman held forth, presenting interesting facts about which the average citizen confesses to considerable ignorance. Reviewing the early days, when some can still recall, when the painter came to your house with white lead and oil, which he mixed on the premises, the speaker explained how modern methods now produce a paint of far more lasting qualities, explaining the sometimes advanced theory that the old-time oil and lead are superior to present day paint in cans. The latter paint is far richer in oil content and therefore a better protectant of surface. Dealing with the subject of varnish, the speaker told of its use as far back as the time of the pyramids, when it was named for the Egyptian princess Bernice and was used in embalming. The best grade of varnishes today is as good as that of ancient times, but the law does not forbid adulteration, and much modern varnish is of that kind. Visiting Rotarians included H. N. McDougall of Portland, Oscar Emery and Kendall Hopkins, Camden, Alton Johnson, Belfast and Carl Sonntag, Miss. President Sherman has as guest, Frank H. Michens of New York, freight traffic manager of the Eastern Steamship Lines. A letter was read from Henry B. Bird, club delegate to Rotary International, in session at Minneapolis.

Members of the Universalist parish are asked to bring their envelopes for July and August to the morning service tomorrow or get them to Mrs. W. L. Benner, collector promptly. The church closes tomorrow for two months' vacation.

HARRIS-FREEMAN

At a beautiful wedding ceremony solemnized at high noon Thursday at Lake Cobboscocontee, Miss June Annette Freeman, daughter of Mrs. Annie E. Freeman, became the bride of Charles Miller Harris, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Harris of Augusta. Rev. Stuart B. Purves officiated, using the single ring ceremony.

Miss L. Arline Bove of Bangor was maid of honor. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Carl E. Freeman of Rockland and the best man was John A. Nelson.

The bride wore a gown of parchment shade georgette and lace. She wore a large hat of the same shade of lace and carried a shower bouquet of opheelia roses.

A wedding breakfast was served at Pine Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Harris left immediately after on an automobile trip which will also include a coastwise sailing trip to southern ports. The bride's going-away costume was a green ensemble. Out of town guests at the wedding and breakfast included Mrs. Dana Bicknell and Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Freeman of Rockland.

Mrs. Harris is a graduate of Bangor High School, and has been secretary in the office of the Bangor division of the Red Cross and Family Welfare Bureau. He was graduated from Cony High School and attended Brooklyn Polytechnic Preparatory School for a year before entering Maine.

The bride had been a frequent visitor in this city.

FRENNING-BORDEN

Under date of June 21 a special to the Boston Transcript notes a Fall River wedding, the details of which interest a large number of readers of this paper. Says the account:

Late this afternoon at "Interlachen," the Fall River estate of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Borden, their daughter, Miss Blanche Butler Borden, is to be married to Alfred Bass Frenning, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Frenning of Belmont. Rev. E. C. Herrick of the Newton Theological Institution of Newton Center will perform the ceremony. Mr. Borden will give his daughter in marriage and there will be no bridal attendants and no ushers.

The bride's gown is of light blue chiffon, with long sleeves. She will not wear a veil. Her flowers will be a bright bouquet worn on the shoulder. The ceremony is to be followed by an early wedding supper, which will be served on the lawn of the Borden estate. An Hawaiian string quartet will play a special musical program. As the wedding is to be small, only the families of the bride and bridegroom and a few intimate friends are to be present. Mr. Frenning and his bride will live in Boston.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Colonel Spencer Borden of Fall River and General Mrs. Adelbert Ames of Lowell. She was named for her grandmother, Blanche Butler Ames, whose father was General Benjamin F. Butler, a former governor of Massachusetts. Miss Borden is a member of the Junior League of Boston and attended Miss Wheeler's School at Providence, R. I. She was graduated from Bryn Mawr with the class of 1924, after which she studied at the School of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and has studied also under her aunt, Mrs. Oakes Ames of Bay State road, Boston.

The bridegroom prepared for college at the country Day School and was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1920 and later from the Harvard Business School. During the World War, he served in the American Field Service, in France; the American Red Cross Ambulance Service, in Italy, and finally with the Harvard Unit of the United States Marine Corps. AT BRADFORD ACADEMY

Former Camden Girl Delivers Poem At Anniversary Luncheon.

The following poem was written for the 125th anniversary of the founding of Bradford (Mass.) Academy and read by its author at the anniversary luncheon, held June 9.

THE DREAM

[Bradford, 1893-1928]

A hundred, five and twenty years ago,
Those years that stand alone and seem
To be a perfect, undivided whole,
A dream was born—a dream.

A dream that hovered in the upper air
And waited for a brain to draw
It down to earth and make of it
The thing the dreamer saw.

He saw a bulled place of questionings,
With answers clear and whole
That struck right into seeing minds
And reconquered the soul.

A place where courage marked the climbing way
And raised the great dream higher yet,
Where truth and beauty were the same
On life's high altar set.

Within this place of steadfast visioning,
Held high the dream, and let us keep
Our eyes on windows, starry ways,
And hither souls from sleep.

THE REALM OF MUSIC

Gladys St. Clair Morgan

Machias has joined the towns having boys' bands, and their achievement in this direction is something of which to be proud. Preliminary work of organizing a band was undertaken Jan. 12 and on Memorial Day the townspeople had the satisfaction of seeing that band, numbering 60 boys, lead the parade, uniformed in white and playing almost like finished handmen. It was their first public appearance, and they gave Machias a justifiable thrill of pride.

The band was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the president, Harrison L. Richardson, being responsible for the undertaking. In spite of opposition the committee under his direction went ahead and surprises were soon forthcoming. Out of the 60 boys recruited only 15 had any knowledge of music, and this fact when considering their skill at the present time is remarkable.

Hovey M. Wiswell, identified with anything musical in Machias and vicinity, was prevailed upon to direct the boys. And therein lies the secret of their success, for he worked with them early and late, taking them in groups at times so that more individual instruction could be given. The boys themselves have put heart and soul into rehearsals, attending regularly and showing the greatest enthusiasm.

Nearby towns have become interested in the Machias Band and the boys have received a number of engagements for early summer. At the Colonial Theatre last Tuesday they gave their first public concert.

The National Soldiers' Home at Togus has lost a beloved member in the recent death of Berthold W. Thieme who for more than 40 years conducted the home band which has charmed thousands of music lovers with its concerts. Mr. Thieme was called by John Philip Sousa "public benefactor." Many of the musicians he trained became members of Sousa's band and other prominent organizations. A number of his other recommendations than a good word from Prof. Thieme.

He was born in Zachan, Pomerania, Germany, March 11, 1849. He studied music and was graduated from the school of Julius von Unruh. He was a musician from 1866 to 1872 in the Austrian war and the Franco-Russian war. He next enlisted as a musician on the U. S. S. Plymouth and was discharged at New York at the end of the cruise. Here he joined the Aschenbodel Musical Union and became solo cornetist in the 71st Regimental Band. A resident of Boston for many years, he was assistant leader of the Henry I. Brown Brigade Band and leader of its orchestra.

He came to Togus as leader of the home band and orchestra June 1, 1913, and gave continued service up to about two years ago when ill health forced him to give up the work. He remained at the home however and was surrounded with loving care.

June 15 was the anniversary of one of the greatest speeches ever sponsored in Boston, that of the National Peace Jubilee Musical Festival, celebrating the restoration of the Union of the States, which opened on June 15, 1869, and continued for four days. Are there any people in Rockland who attended that Jubilee and can give us a word regarding the celebration?

Information gleaned from the newspaper records tell us that credit for the inauguration of the pageant is attributed to P. S. Gilmore, organizer of bands and leaders of instrumental concerts. Despite the discouragement which he met on all sides, he continued to plan for the occasion and the work of erecting a building to accommodate was started March 29.

When the great day arrived, Boston was thronged with people from all parts of the United States. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon on June 15 the exercises were opened with a prayer by the Rev. E. E. Hale; next an address of welcome by Mayor Shurtleff, followed with an oration by A. H. Rice. Tremendous applause greeted Mr. Gilmore as he advanced to open the musical program, and warm welcome was accorded Miss Phillips, Madame Parepa-Rosa, Mr. Elchberg, Mr. Zerrahn, Mr. Tourjee, and others who appeared.

The performance began with Luther's "God is a Castle and Defense," which burst forth with immense volume from 10,000 voices, accompanied by 1,000 instruments. Madame Parepa-Rosa as the first soloist of the Jubilee rendered Gounod's "Ave Maria," which was played by 200 chosen violins, led by Ole Bull, Carl Rosa, Schultze, Stuck, Meisel, Elchberg and others. The "Star Spangled Banner" was played.

Augusta, June 22—Maine high schools this year are graduating 5000 students and the normal schools are releasing 600, according to a statement by Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, State commissioner of education.

"The number of normal school graduates will not be enough to supply the existing vacancies with trained teachers, however," says the Commissioner.

"Four or five hundred high school graduates will be utilized in teaching, but these will attend the summer normal school courses before they take up such duties."

Dr. Thomas declares that great progress in efficiency has been made in the teaching staff of the schools of Maine since 1922. "In that year," he says, "we lost a large percentage of trained teachers who went to other States because of increased wages. Since that time the wages of teachers have increased so that we are now able to hold them in Maine. Six years ago 42 percent of the teachers had normal school or college training, while at the present time over 80 percent are equipped with that advantage."

"The plan is," he continued, "to build the normal schools up to a point where they can more nearly supply the demand for well prepared teachers. The day is past when the mere hearing of classes constitutes teaching. Teaching has its own technique, not only in the method of instruction, but in the handling of pupils as well as fitting the instruction to the needs of the child."

"Maine high schools are making excellent progress, not only in buildings and equipment but in the efficiency of instruction. This is already beginning to tell in the college careers of the graduates. There will be an increasing efficiency as the children now being taught in the lower grades take up their studies in higher education."

Since Adjutant General James W. Hanson became chief of the State highway police his long experience in military organization has made its imprint upon the organization of the force, and the rules, regulations, and orders issued from time to time from his office, have a distinct military ring.

A service guide for the conduct of members of the force on duty has been recently issued and states, among other things, that members of the State shall not engage in any political activities of any nature except in the exercise of their personal rights of suffrage.

Further regulations prescribe as follows: "Members of the State police will not be permitted to receive any gift or engage in any other calling, occupation or profession and no member shall remain a member of any political, social or industrial organization if such membership shall be to the detriment of the service."

"No member of the State police shall be permitted to receive any gift or anything of a pecuniary value for services performed other than his regular compensation received from the State of Maine."

"Members of the State police are prohibited from invoking personal solicitations or influence of any person for the advancement of himself or another while a member of the force. Such solicitation will be considered cause for trial and upon conviction, discharge from the service."

"Members of the State police must be quiet, civil, orderly and when on duty or otherwise, moral in their conduct, character and habits. While on duty they must be attentive, control their temper and exercise the utmost patience and discretion. They must at all times refrain from harsh, violent, coarse and obscene language."

How to interpret uniformly the rules and regulations prescribed by the departments of agriculture of the New England States for the use of the recently adopted New England quality products label, is the subject of instruction in a school which will be held in July for the marketing officials of the different States.

Special attention will be given to the grading of eggs during the three days of the school, and the marketing officials expect at the end of that time to be agreed upon a code so that a uniform standard of quality will be maintained.

The idea of using the New England label is taking very well in Maine, according to Charles M. White, chief of the bureau of agriculture in the State department of agriculture, and applications for permission to use it are being received as fast as they can be conveniently handled.

A new senior infantry instructor for the Maine National Guard has been named in the person of Major Hugh B. Keene, 13th Infantry who has been stationed at Camp Devens, Mass., and will relieve Major D. G. C. Garrison, transferred to the 5th Infantry.

Adjutant General James W. Hanson is making an appeal to employers to follow their custom of former years and make it possible for men in their employ who are members of the Guard to attend the encampments without loss of compensation.

Expressing the gratitude of the military department of Maine for the co-operation of employers in the past, Adjutant General Hanson in his letter remarks: "The marked benefits of this policy have been fully demonstrated by the fact that at the last annual armory inspection by officers of the regular army, 31 companies and 81 units were rated as 'very satisfactory,' which is the highest rating given, and 13 were 'unsatisfactory.'"

"There's great lure in beautiful smooth skin"

says William A. Wellman, director for PARAMOUNT

"People love beautiful skin. Only girls with rarely lovely skin—'studio skin'—have ever become stars. The close-up has taught us the great lure of perfect skin. Make-up can't fake it beneath the glare of the close-up. It must be real."

It can stir the emotions—the soft petal-smooth skin that is so innocently fresh and vital.

Motion picture directors know that a star's grip on her audience tightens the minute a close-up is shown—the fascination of her loveliness makes itself felt.

So they insist on utterly smooth "studio skin." Screen stars must keep their skin so perfect that even the glaring lights of the close-up reveal only beauty.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap.

There are in Hollywood 433 actresses doing important work, including all stars. 417 of these use Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps their skin velvety smooth.

96% of all the lovely complexions you see on the screen are cared for by this soap.

All the great film studios, following their stars' example, have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms. Get some today and see how delicious your skin, too, feels after it.

DOROTHY MACKAILL has the exquisite fair skin of an English beauty. "So much of a girl's charm depends on smooth skin. I find Lux Toilet Soap lovely for the skin," says this First National star. Nine out of ten screen stars use it for smooth skin.

PHYLLIS HAVER finds that this soap, being made as France makes her finest toilet soaps, is perfect for her lovely fair skin. "It leaves my skin so gently smooth I have no fear of the close-up's high powered lights," says this young Pathé De Mille star.

RENÉE ADORÉE'S flashing Gallic beauty is loved by millions. "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only expensive French soap could give—it is certainly a lovely soap," declares the fastidious Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star.

SUE CAROL, chosen as one of the Wampus stars this year, finds this white fragrant soap delightful. "Lux Toilet Soap leaves my skin gloriously smooth," says this promising Pathé De Mille star.

MRS. GANNETT HONORED

Maine Woman Will Serve On Executive Committee Of National Committee.

Maine made another step further into the charmed inner circle of Republican leadership Thursday with the selection of Mrs. Guy P. Gannett of Portland, Republican, as a member of the national committee, which will serve as a Hoover campaign committee.

Mrs. Gannett was selected at Kansas City to serve as a member of the special committee of 24 members of the national committee to pick new officers for the national committee, to select an executive committee and to discuss campaign plans with Secretary Hoover and Senator Curtis, Republican nominees for the Presidency and Vice Presidency respectively.

Mrs. Gannett expressed herself as surprised but greatly pleased at her selection as one of the ten women on the Executive committee.

"I believe that we are entering on a new era in Republican history," said Mrs. Gannett. "The old ways are behind us. The day when members of the national committee were just figure heads who poured out the funds and took orders is gone. For the first time the national committee is the campaign committee. Modern methods of campaigning will be adopted along with this new principle of taking National Committee men into campaign councils.

"As soon as I return to Maine I will get in touch with Daniel F. Field, Republican State Chairman, and other Maine leaders to talk over plans for the Hoover campaign in Maine. Of course, Maine will go Republican, but we are not going to let the grass grow under our feet through over-confidence but will roll up as big a victory for Hoover as possible."

Word that President Coolidge wishes to rest for at least a month before accepting invitations has been conveyed to officials of neighboring cities. The President desires to enjoy his seclusion with no thought of participating in any event for several weeks and Mrs. Coolidge's doctor Colonel Coupal, demands that she remain quiet and regain her strength.

The name of the river on which President Coolidge's camp is situated has undergone two changes in pronunciation. Originally "Brule" was pronounced with an accent on the last syllable, making it "Brulay." The Wisconsin people never speak of it as "Brule River." It is invariably "River thing like 'Brooly,' but now it has Brule."

One's brother will not be sentimental to one as his brother, but he will usually come around with his pocketbook when you need it.
